Purple Soup's Craft a Raft activity is a team-building exercise that will get your employees working as a high-functioning, collaborative unit as they work against the clock in a high-speed, adrenalin-charged environment.

In this challenge, your employees will form competing teams to plan, build and race a raft - all within a limited time frame and with a limited budget.

Communication and collaboration are critical as the teams compete to build a raft that will qualify them to race and make a splash at the finish line.

This is a team-building activity that will exhilarate and develop your people - both as individuals and as team players.
